GB Railfreight runs record number of trains

GB Railfreight (GBRf), the UK's most reliable freight haulier has broken its record for the number of trains run in a week. On the week commencing Sunday 5 September the freight company planned and delivered 529 train services.

John Smith, MD, GB Railfreight, said: "Given that to meet the needs of our customers we receive most of our orders with less than seven days notice, this is quite an achievement."

Of the trains run, 212 were in connection with coal services in the North East and 69 in connection with intermodal services running from Felixstowe to the Midlands and the North.

The remainder of the trains were made up of a combination of the other commodities GBRf operates in, such as petrochemicals.

GBRf's previous record for trains run in a week was approximately 470.
